

ABSTRACT

A toner agitating device of the present invention feeds air from air feeding means to the inside of a toner container storing powdery toner therein to thereby agitate the toner. The air feeding means is implemented by at least one variable air pump capable of varying the amount of air to be fed for a unit time.